DENVER, Aug. 26 /PRNewswire/ -- An official Guinness Book of World Records attempt to display the largest ever protest sign has succeeded. The 530-foot tall and 666-foot wide message is being shouted from the mountaintops overlooking the Democratic National Convention with the leading 2008 protest message.

Depending on their location, thousands of DNC delegates and journalists can look out their hotel windows to the west to see the sign. Sponsored by American RTL Action, the message initially appeared with three enormous 160-foot tall, bright yellow letters, D-N-C, stacked on top of each other.

After those letters suddenly appeared on a mountain just west of Denver, the actual full message of the sign began to unfurl. Three lines of white text, built on the vertical yellow letters read, D-N-C:

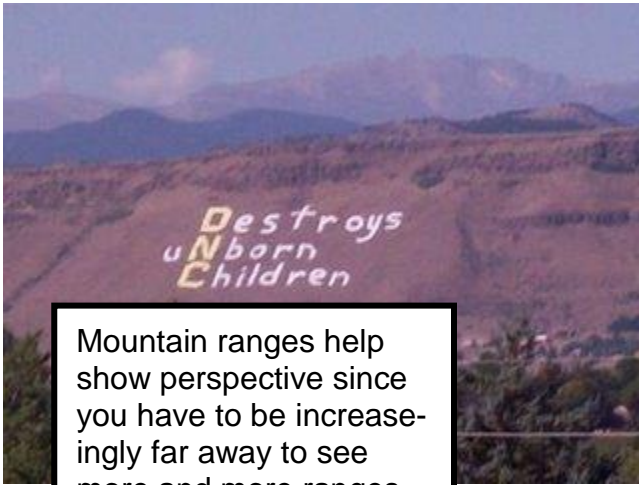

Destroys
uNborn
Children

"The tiniest boys and girls should be loved and protected," said American RTL Action president Steve Curtis, "but as nominating Barack Obama emphasizes, the DNC even supports killing kids in the womb old enough to know their mother's voice, sleep and dream, suck their thumbs, and play with their toes."

Columbine dad Brian Rohrbough, whose son Daniel was murdered at that high school massacre, is the group's vice president. "When we tell kids that unborn children can be killed if their parents don't want them," said Rohrbough, "we rob them of the knowledge of the God-given right to life and we destroy their moral foundation. Abortion is wrong because it's a baby; it's always wrong to intentionally kill an innocent baby."

Guinness assigned American Right To Life an official world record attempt number: 228132. The protest sign weighs more than 2,700 pounds and was sewed together with more than four miles of seams connecting 2,400 sheets and backpacked onto location and unfurled by 44 letter carriers with spotters a mile away to ensure proper letter placement. ARTL commits to removing the DNC Sheets Of Shame and leaving the area cleaner than it had been.

ARTL is also a lead sponsor of the DNC Power in the Park protest event by national black leaders at Denver's Martin Luther King Jr. Park.

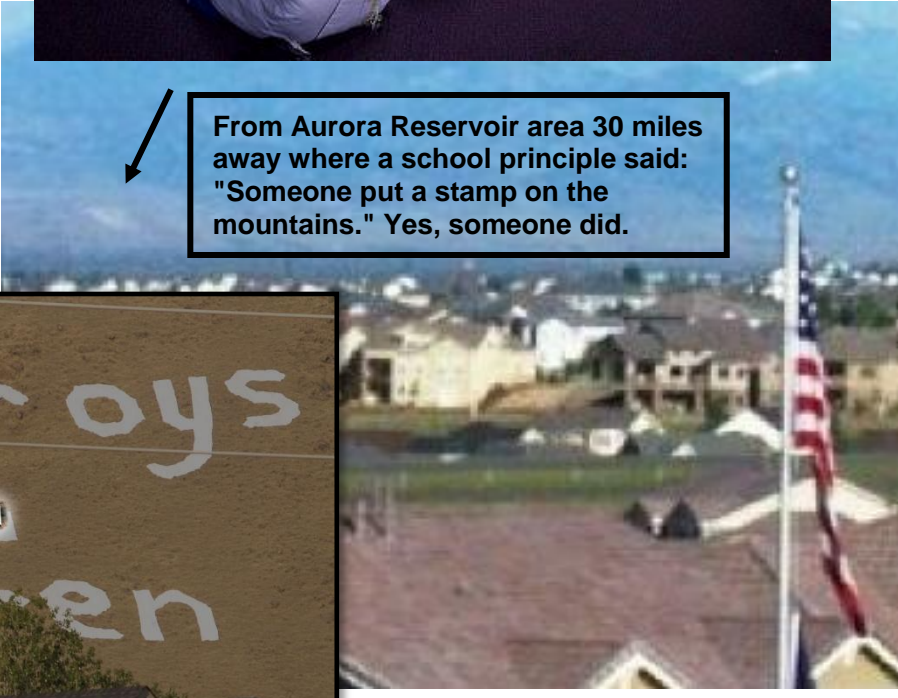

Mountain ranges help show perspective since you have to be increasingly far away to see more and more ranges.

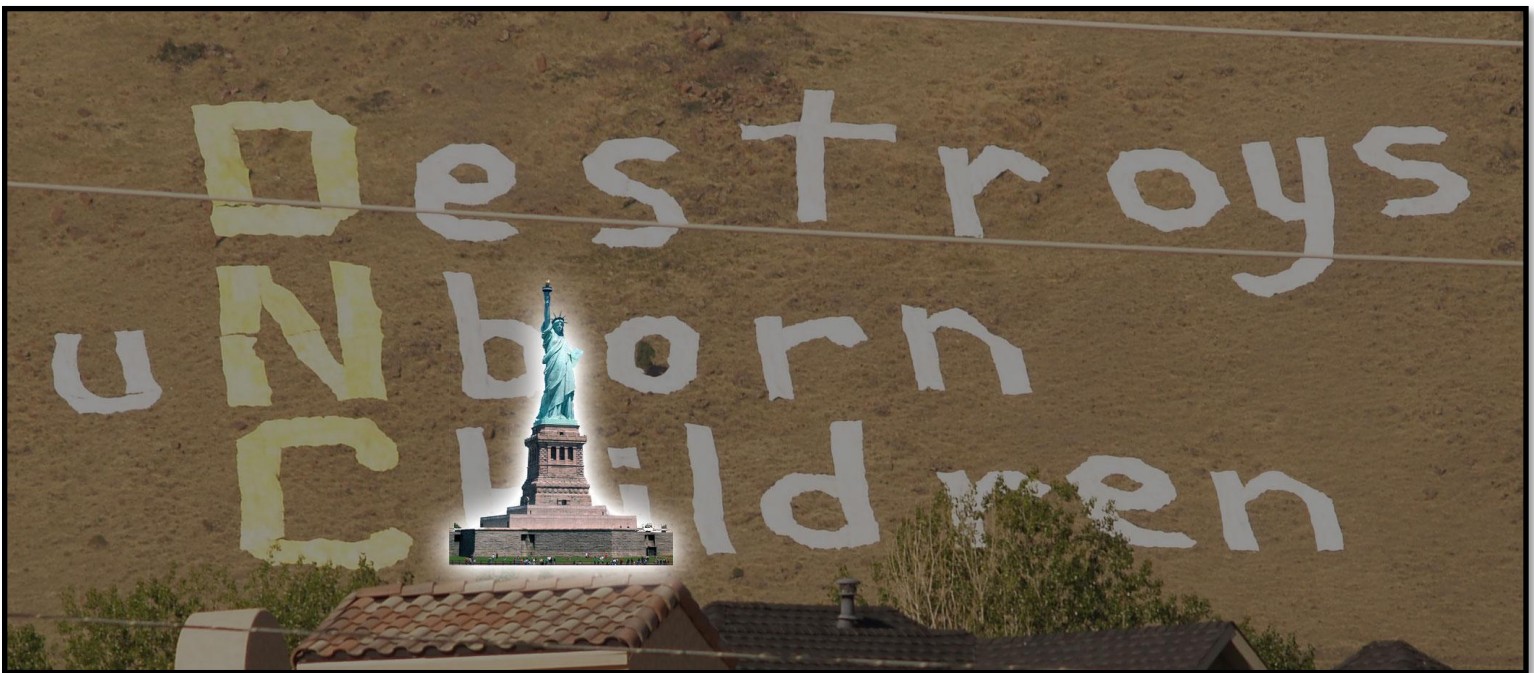

Here are a few of the 53 backpacks used by the American Right To Life 'letter carriers' to hike the 2,700 pound sign onto North Table Mountain in Golden Colo.

To grasp the size of this ARTL sign, see it proportional to these landmarks:

American RTL Fails to Break its Own World Record

Denver, Colorado - At the exact moment Barack Obama began his acceptance speech, American Right To Life Action began to deploy an 800-foot version of its famous DNC sign altered to expose the infanticide views of the Democratic presidential candidate. In a field situated visibly under a flight path of planes departing Denver International Airport, the 424,000 square-foot sign proved too difficult for the team of forty ARTL members.

Thousands of media and private photos and video clips of the August 25, 2008 historic display of the giant sign on the mountain show that the unfurling matched ARTL's design requirements. ARTL Action changed the message from 'unborn' to 'born' when attempting to deploy an enormous sign as part of our relentless rebuke of Barack Obama for his immoral refusal to love and protect a child even AFTER he is born.

"Obama refused to answer Rick Warren's question of when human rights begin," said American RTL Action president Steve Curtis, "because as his Illinois Senate campaign against Alan Keyes made brutally clear, Barack Obama even advocates a right to kill children after they are born. His repeated votes against the Born-Alive Infant Protection Act indicate that Democratic voters nominated the most heartless candidate before them."

Curtis, a former chairman of the Colorado Republican Party, added, "If Obama had stated the morally bankrupt pro-abortion claim that a child's life and rights begin at birth, he would have exposed his own willingness to abandon a child who survived an abortion to die outside her mother's womb. This particular abortion practice was exposed by famed Illinois nurse Jill Stanek."

Guinness World Records requested that ARTL Action provide certification from an expert qualified to document the final dimensions of Tuesday's DNC Sheets Of Shame. While an engineer is providing that documentation to Guinness on behalf of the 527 political group, "American RTL Action has no real interest in any world record," said Curtis, "other than the record of ending 'legalized' child killing around the country. Since most reporters are 'pro-choice,' we used the Guinness angle just to tempt them to run the story so they would publish our condemnation of pro-abortion politicians. It worked."

next day agreed. "Far left activists who promised convention mayhem mostly made fools of themselves. They had no coherent message... Not so, regarding pro-life activists. They were seemingly everywhere in Denver... And then there was the little matter of that giant message that showed up Tuesday morning on North Table Mountain... that said 'Destroys uNborn Children.'" Then, Catholic.org and Larry Anderson of the American Thinker reported, "The most visible and vocal protestors demonstrating at the Democratic National Convention are the advocates for the unborn. ...they are everywhere and in the faces of delegates. Undaunted by the heat, the ridicule, and the tight restrictions placed on them by the city... these soldiers for life battle on.
